A Truthful Sketch.

Let a man fail in business, what an effect it has on his former creditors! Men who have taken him by the arm, laughed and chatted with him by the hour, sing their shoulders and pass on with a cold "How do you do?"

Every trifle of a bill is hunted up and presented that would not have been the light for months to come, but for the misfortune of the debtor. If it is paid, well and good; if not, the scowl of the sheriff, perhaps, meets him at the corner. A man that has never failed knows but little of human nature.

In prosperity he sails along gently, waited by favoring smiles and kind words from everybody. He prides himself on his name and spotless character, and makes his boast that he has not an enemy in the world. Alas! the change. He looks at the world in a different light when reverses come upon him. He reads suspicion on every brow. He hardly knows how to move or to do this thing or the other; there are spies about him, a wit is ready for his back. To know what kind of stuff the world is made of, a person must be unfortunate, and stop paying once in his lifetime. If he has kind friends then they are made manifest. A failure is a moral sieve, it brings out the wheat and shows the chaff. A man thus treated that words and pretended good will are not and do not constitute real friendship.

Don't forget to say good morning! Say it to your parents, brothers and sisters, schoolmates, teachers—and say it cheerfully and with a smile; it will do your friends good. There's a kind of inspiration in every "good morning" heartily and smilingly spoken, that helps to make hope fresher and work lighter. It seems really to make the morning good, and to be a prophecy of a good day to come after it. And if this be true of the "good morning," it is also of all kind, heartsome greetings. They cheer the discouraged, rest the tired one, and somehow make wheels of life run smoothly. Let no morning pass that you do not help to brighten by your smiles and cheerful words.

UNIVERSAL ANTIDOTE FOR POISON.—A physician says that sweet oil is not only an antidote to the bite of a rattlesnake, but will cure poison of any kind, both on man and beast. The patient must take a spoonful of it internally, and bathe the wound for a cure. To cure a horse, it takes eight times as much as a man. One of the most extreme cases of snake bites occurred seven years ago. It had been of thirty days standing, and the patient was given up by his doctors. I gave a spoonful of oil, which effected a cure. It will cure blots in cattle caused by fresh clover. It will cure the sting of bees, spiders, or other insects, and persons who have been poisoned by a low running vine called ivy.

CHEAP PROCESS FOR BRONZING ARTICLES MADE OF IRON WIRE.—Clean the wire perfectly, and then immerse it in a solution of sulphate of copper until covered with a coating of metallic copper. Then wash and immerse the articles in the following solution: verdigris, two ounces; sal ammoniac, one ounce; vinegar, one pint; diluted with water until it tastes only slightly metallic, and then boiled for a few minutes and filtered. The articles are stored in this liquor, at the boiling point, until the desired effect is produced; but do not keep them in too long. When taken out wash carefully in hot water and dry.

A certain way to keep ants from sugar barrels, lard cans, and preserve jars, says one who has tried it, is to tie a string wet with kerosene around the barrel, can, or jar. Repeat the wetting of the string with the kerosene oil every few days.

During foggy weather, the impurities of the atmosphere, both gaseous and solid, are carried down and inhaled. As the nose is the proper channel by which breathed air should pass to the lungs, the mouth should never be opened when one is exposed to the weather; the cold air is warmed and irritating particles are arrested by the nasal mucus and the lungs thus saved.

In a hotel in the Pyrenees the following notice is posted: "All travelers on their arrival will be entitled, gratis, to a bath with friction and special lotions. These lotions will guarantee the traveler perfect immunity from the numerous insects which infest the hotel."

One morning Pat was taking down the shutters, when a brother Irishman was passing by. "Why are you taking down the shutters, Pat?" said he. "To let out the dark to be sure," was the reply.

All persons, old or young, feeble or strong who value the preservation of their health or their lives, should, as far as possible, in inclement weather, clothe themselves in flannel, woollen, and fur garments, eschewing silk and the lighter materials until the season is more favorable.—Sanitary Record.

Dr. Lyon Playfair states that, to ensure perfect ventilation, from two thousand to three thousand cubic feet of air should be allowed to pass through a chamber every hour for each person sleeping or living in it.

Children or persons suffering from infectious diseases should never be allowed to touch or fondle domestic animals, as cats and dogs, as these are frequently the means by which contagion is carried to others.

To do is to succeed.

ROMAN MAGNIFICENCE.

If anything was wanted to give us an idea of Roman magnificence, we would turn our eyes from public monuments, demoralized games and grand procession, we would forget the statues of brass and marble, which outnumbered the living inhabitants, so numerous that one hundred thousand have been recovered and still embellish Italy; and would descend into the lower sphere of material life—those things which attest luxury and taste—to ornaments, dresses, sumptuous living, and rich furniture.

The art of using metals and cutting precious stones surpassed anything of the present day.

In the decoration of houses, in social entertainments, in cookery, the Romans were remarkable. The mosaic, signet rings, canoes, bracelets, bronzes, vases, couches, banqueting tables, chariots, lamps, colored glass, gilding, mirrors, mattresses, cosmetics, perfumes, hair dyes, silk ribbons, potteries, all attest great elegance and beauty. The tables of things root and Delian bronzes were as expensive as the sideboards of Spanish walnut, so much admired in the Great Exhibition at London.

Wood and ivory were carved as exquisitely as in Japan or China. Mirrors were made of polished silver. Glass cutters could imitate the colors of precious stones so well that the Portland vase, taken from the tomb of Alexander Severus was long considered as a genuine sardonyx; brass could be hardened so as to cut stone.

The palace of Nero glittered with gold and jewels. Perfumes and flowers were showered from ivory ceilings. The halls of Agrippa were hung with cloth and gold. His beds were silver, and his tables of gold. Tiberius gave a million of sesterces for a picture of his bedroom. A banquet dish of Dacian silver weighed five hundred pounds silver. The cups of Drusus were of gold. Tunics were embroidered with the figures of various animals. Sandals were garnished with precious stones. Drinking cups were engraved with scenes from the poets. Libraries were adorned with busts and with tortoise shell, and covered with gorgeous purple.

The Roman grandees rode in gilded chariots, bathed in marble baths, dined on golden plate, drank from crystal cups, slept on beds of down, reclined on luxurious couches, wore embroidered robes, and were adorned with precious stones.

They ransacked the earth and the seas for rare dishes for their banquets, and ornamented their houses with carpets from Babylon, onyx cups from Bythia, marbles from Numidia, bronzes from Corinth, statues from Athens—whatever, in short, was precious or curious in the most distant countries. The luxuries of the bath almost excused belief, and on the walls were magnificent frescoes and paintings, exhibiting an inexhaustive productiveness in landscape and mythological scenes.

WASTE NO TIME.—After allowing yourself proper time for rest, don't live a single hour of your life without doing exactly what is to be done in that hour, and going straight through with it from beginning to end. Work, play, study, rest, whatever it is—take hold at once and finish it up squarely and clearly; then to the next thing, without letting any moments drop out between.—It is wonderful to see how many hours these prompt people contrive to make of a day; it is as if they picked up the moments that so many of us lose. And if ever you find yourself where you have so many things pressing upon you, that you hardly know how to begin, let me tell you a secret. Take hold of the first one that comes to hand in real earnest, and you will soon find that the rest will all fall into file and follow after like a company of well drilled soldiers; and though work may be hard to meet when it charges in a squad, it is easily vanquished if you can once bring it into line.

Lemon juice, thickened with salt, powdered starch and soap, laid over stains, mildew or iron-rust, will remove them if the articles are spread on the grass where the sun will strike them.—This is sure, and does not injure the fabric.

Names are sometimes oddly suggestive of people's taste and studies. For example, in Johnson's Universal Cyclopedia the articles on Fish and Fisheries are written by a Mr. Gill, and the article on Cremation by a Mr. Sexton.

It is a mistake for an absent husband to imagine that his wife is as lonely as Hagar in the wilderness—a mistake which he does not fully realize, perhaps, until he comes to settle his gas bill.

A cordial, warm shake of the hand takes my heart.—Willis.

ENGLISH INNS AND AMERICAN HOTELS.

A friend writes: "I shall never forget, when remembering the minor pleasures of my visit to England, my first experience of an 'inn.' We went directly to Chester and, to the disgust of the porters, declined to go where, being evidently 'gentry,' we should have gone by instinct—to the elegant, apic and apic, brain-new 'Grosvenor,' but insisted on being carried to one of the old-fashioned inns. We found a large house, with its traditional 'landlady' in the bar, and were shown into a waiting-room while our parlor was made ready. This proved to be a large apartment furnished in a comfortable, homelike way, with the same sort of furniture that would have been found in an ordinary English house—I mean, there was nothing in the room that suggested it had been furnished 'on contract.' When dinner-time came we found the table laid in our own parlor, the waiter and his boy in black coats, white neckcloths and white cotton gloves, and the table set like one's own and differing in no respect, not even in the quality of the furniture, from what one often saw afterward in England at the tables of very good people. We had ordered our dinner beforehand, the landlady having come up and asked us what we would like, very civilly, and kindly helping us to choose, so that when we sat down, the tireless waiter we had left three thousand miles away, with his skipping alternations from freezing neglect to pushing obsequiousness, and his 'bill-of-fare' with its chaos come again and its damnable iteration, were a forgotten nightmare and the dinner was a foretaste of Paradise. I remember that after dinner when the dessert was set—the cloth being actually removed and the old mahogany revealed—the waiter, in putting on the table some handsome old Worcester plates (made in the days when there was a Worcester that had something better to do than making bad copies of Japanese perfection), whispered that 'Mrs. —' thinking that we might like, as Americans, to see some old china, had sent these up, and how was it possible after that to feel that we were in a hotel? The surprise was reserved, however, for bed-time, when, on going to our chamber, we found a small fire flickering cheerfully in the grate, the candles lighted, the curtains of the four-post bedstead drawn and the clothes turned down, while at one side of the room, placed upon a cloth of its own and with its own towel-stand supplied with bath-towels, was the welcome bath, an English gift to the world worth all the sewing machines and steam engines that were ever invented. Here was a comfortable lap of fortune to have fallen into, and we hummed with Dr. Johnson those lines of Shenstone that no home-staying American (at least, since the good old days of 'Danvers') can ever understand the sense of: 'Whoever has traveled life's dull round, Whosoever his stages may have been, May sigh to think he still has found The warmest welcome at an inn!'

"Among my reminiscences of travel, I do not know of any sharper contrast than between this comfortable inn at Chester and the hotel we went to on arriving in New York—one of the three or four 'first class' hotels; for, whereas in Europe no one who is merely after comfort and not after a showy way of spending money ever goes in a city to the first class hotels, here at home it is never safe to go to any other. At this hotel we were shown into a big, bare room, containing just what was necessary for decent living—a carpet, a bed, a bureau, a looking glass, a table and four chairs, with the inevitable furnace hole in the wall, the gas-burner where no one could use it in dressing, and the wash-basin in the narrow closet—a scientific desolation (your room being exactly like every other in the caravanserai) which we Americans have carried to perfection. At dinner, we sat in the well lighted, handsomely proportioned dining-hall and 'fed' with the multitude—the gentleman in front of us enjoying his ice-cream, watermelons, peaches and coffee all at once—be at the tail of the cavaliere while we were at the head. Yet for all this bare and bleak discomfort we paid far more than for the English hospitality."—Scribner for November.

People have generally three epochs in their confidence in man. In the first they believe him to be everything that is good and are lavish with their friendship and confidence. In the next they have had experience which has smitten down their confidence, and they then have to be careful not to mistrust every one and to put the worst construction on everything. Later in life they learn that the greater number of men have much more good in them than bad and that when even there is cause to blame, there is more reason to pity than condemn; and then a spirit of confidence again awakes within them.

BUILDING A GIRL'S BRAIN.

The average English girl of 20 is a finer creature physically than her American contemporary; larger-boned, more muscular, fuller-blooded, and in general more robust. The children's food at English schools is more digestible and nourishing. To eat regularly three hearty meals every day is a duty and a pleasure in an English family or school. Girls are required to bring luncheon from home or buy it at the school. English girls are more in the open air than American girls, and indoors they live in rooms warmed by open fires. Girls are not allowed to study after 8 o'clock in the evening, in order that they may have time to rest before bedtime. If the pupil cannot complete her lesson within the time mentioned, she leaves it undone. An English girl of good family grows up, until she is 18 years old, in an atmosphere of profound quiet; she sees very little of young men beyond those of her own family; does not go to parties, or public entertainments of any sort, and knows little, and cares less, about the outside world. She is never a performer at school exhibitions or public examinations of any kind. As fortunate marriages are what English girls desire, it is important that a young woman, in all classes of society, should be healthy and vigorous. In the language of Dr. Clarke, "The English educate the body better than we do, and so far build better brains. There is no reason why we should not equal or surpass them in this respect as well as others. A republic should build the brains of its children with as much care and excellence as a monarchy performs the same task, if it would exist as long."

Since rock crystal has become so much employed in optics, the search for it has grown very active. The Alps are the chief field for this industry. The searchers generally prosecute their work alone, in order to avoid having to divide the spoil. It involves great labor and risk. An extraordinary haul has lately been made by a Berne physician, who when on the mountains a year ago, with a guide, discovered a vein of crystal quartz sixty feet by twelve feet. It was too late in the season for them to do anything last year, but when the warm weather came they repaired to the spot and procured an immense number of splendid stones. The large pieces went to museums and the fragments to opticians.

They attempted to take one of Barnum's new giraffes across Rhode Island last week, but just as it was on the Massachusetts line it reached over and ate about half of a haystack in a farmyard in Connecticut, and when the farmer came out with a club and attacked the Connecticut end, the Massachusetts end got mad and kicked a man in Boston, and nearly killed him. It created a good deal of excitement at the time in Rhode Island, and most of the people stepped out of the State till it was over.

Germans have generally less good sight than other people. Far more soldiers wear spectacles in the German than in other armies. In the armies of France, Italy, England, and Spain, a spectacle man is rarely seen. An examination of the eyes of recruits in Switzerland showed that while thirteen to fourteen per cent. of those from French cantons had this defective vision, twenty-one to twenty-two per cent. of those from German cantons had this defect.

A noted practical joker got into a political discussion in a crowd, and offered to bet $100 that he could name a city in the United States of over 10,000 inhabitants in which not a single legal vote would be cast for Tilden. The money was placed in the hands of a bystander, and the joker said: "If you had thought a minute before you took me up you would have remembered that Washington has over 10,000 inhabitants." Suffrage is not extended to the residents of the District of Columbia.

When Thomas Nelson was asked on the revision of the Preston Parliamentary list of borough voters in England whether that was his right name, he said: "No, my proper name is Thomas Hill Joseph Napoleon Horatio Bonaparte Swindelhurst Nelson." The vote was allowed, and the full name inserted in the register.

It is impossible for the red man to struggle successfully against the influence of a high civilization, which is penetrating farther and farther into the depth of his native wilderness. A woman's bustle was recently found in a deserted Sioux camp.

A negro witness in a trial the other day was asked what he was doing in a certain saloon at a certain time. He explained that he had gone there to "change his breed." The explanation was accepted.

An exchange says: "Why will girls run away to get married?"

We give it up, answers the Louisville Courier-Journal. But we know a lot here that would be glad enough to stay at home, or jump at the chance to walk off and get married. The boys ain't around asking them like they did; takes more money to run one of them nowadays than it does to run a steamboat. Ah! girls, it's your own fault. Swap off your silks and satins for lawns and calicoes; shut up the piano and dive into a wash-rub; throw away your fancy needle-work and tackle a red-hot stove in the kitchen. Instead of receiving Brown, the banker's son, in the parlor, keep your eye skinned for Bill Burns, the blacksmith's son, as he goes home from work; kiss his dirty face through a broken pane of glass in the kitchen window, and after awhile, when he learns his trade and you know your business, get married, go to house-keeping by yourselves, help each other live happy, raise a family that will be an honor to your names and credit to themselves, die happy, and the angels will not turn their backs upon you up there.

The city of Pompeii; it will be remembered, was completely buried up in the year 79, nearly one thousand eight hundred years ago, by ashes from the neighboring volcano of Vesuvius. The ruins of the city were rediscovered in 1748. A recent discovery has been made there, consisting of a number of objects of gold and silver, and close to them the carbonized skeletons of two men, who would seem to have been borne down in the storm of ashes while endeavoring to escape with their valuables or plunder.

Among the articles found are eight rings, six pieces of money, two pairs of earrings, two large armlets, each ornamented with thirteen pairs of half globes, with little shells upon them, held together by chain-work, and a necklace of chain-work, all of gold; a silver ring, 332 pieces of silver money, a casseroles of the same material, broken in pieces, and three large bronze coins.

When a Chicago girl received a dispatch from Wisconsin announcing that her lover was going off with consumption, she telegraphed to his friend: "Has poor Jeffrey kept up his life insurance?" The friend telegraphed back: "Policy for $10,000 in your favor is paid up to May 9, 1877. Poor Jeffrey cannot last after the first cold snap." The young lady then wondered philosophically how she would look in black, and telegraphed to Jeffrey: "Darling, I will be with you on Tuesday, never to quit you during life. LURLINE." "It will be a sad loss to you my love," said her mother. "Yes, ma," said the girl, "but the loss is fully covered by insurance."—Tribune.

Patient to the doctor—"And it is really true that I shall recover?" "Infallibly," answers the man of medicine, taking from his pocket a paper full of figures. "Here, look at the statistics of your case; you will find that one per centum of those attacked with your malady are cured. 'Well,' says the sick man, in an unsatisfied manner. 'Well, you are the hundredth person with this disease that I have had under my care, and the first ninety-nine are all dead.'"

The tendency of the moisture generated from ocean surf, says Miss Fall brains, of Boston, at Swampscott, "is to remove from my dresses of muslin material the stiffening substance inserted in it by the laundress." What she wanted to say was that the salt air plays the deuce with starched dresses!

The last, best fruit which comes to late perfection, even in the kindest soil, is tenderness towards the hard, forbearance towards the overbearing, warmth of heart towards the cold, and philanthropy towards the misanthropic.

Philadelphia furniture-dealers send "confidential" letters to clergymen of the city, asking to be put upon the track of persons who are soon to be married, or have been recently.

The most infallible way of preventing a kitchen door from creaking is said to be to engage a servant girl whose sweetheart comes to the house to see her.

That a blessing it is, says a hard-working Chicago Emerald, "that night never comes on till late in the day when a man is tired and can't work any more, at all, at all."

Cider plays a great part in a Norman wedding. A young girl is seated upon a full cask, and she must drink both the first and the last glass it contains in order to be married within a year.

A New London lady has taught her dog to hold up her train when she is upon a muddy street.

Adjourned sine die.

JUBILANT.—Wednesday night's stage having brought us the news of Tilden's election to the Presidency, our Democratic friends in Alpine were exceedingly jubilant and consequently the "Oh, be joyful" and gunpowder were greatly indulged in by the faithful; but last night's stage put another face on affairs and the Republicans took a turn at being hilarious. The arrival of the stage, with news that Hayes and Wheeler were undoubtedly elected to the highest positions which Americans can aspire to, was greeted with enthusiastic cheering and preparations were made for illuminating our mountains with huge bonfires, but, owing to the high wind prevailing, it was postponed until this evening, when a grand salute will be fired and a few cords of wood burned in honor of the great Republican victory.

THE ELECTION.—A very small vote was polled in this county on Tuesday last. No polls were opened in Hope and Bear Valleys, and a large number of Republicans would not take the trouble to leave their work in the mines and wood camps and walk a mile to vote, while we know of Democrats walking from nine to eighteen miles to cast a vote for Tilden. With a larger population we polled less votes than when Grant was elected the last time, when Alpine gave him 51 majority. Instead of polling three hundred votes or more, only 175 were cast, of which Hayes received 110, Tilden 65; Congress—Page 110; Carpenter 65, Controller—Kenfield 110; Brown 65, Wm. Mercer was re-elected Supervisor in the Second (Monitor) District.

ARRIVED.—The tongue and grooving, and molding machine, for the Exchange saw-mill has arrived at the mill and will soon be in running order. These additions, with the Huntington single machine, now running successfully, will make this mill a well-appointed institution, and will be of great benefit to our citizens in the rebuilding of our town.

NEW COMPANY.—The Syndicate Gold and Silver Mining Company on Wednesday last filed articles of incorporation in the office of the Secretary of State. It has a capital of $100,000,000, in shares of $100 each. Directors, P. Ferry, J. B. Heyalop, E. F. Russell, Wm. S. Bell and P. Perry Pease. This Company is to operate in Alpine county and have its office in San Francisco.

DEPENDENT.—Most of our Democratic friends look quite despondent to-day; in fact they look and doubtless feel as the Republicans did on Wednesday evening, when the news of Tilden's election was received here. "You know how it is yourself!"

OUR ROADS.—Superintendent Johnson is having our roads placed in good condition for the winter. The point of rocks at Mt. Bullion will be blasted off so as to make a straight road to the bridge.

TO MINERS.—By referring to an advertisement under "New To-day" it will be seen that Manager Chalmers is prepared to let a contract to sink the I. X. L. shaft 200 feet. Bids will be received up to noon on November 20th.

WILL CELEBRATE.—The Republicans of this town will this evening celebrate the election of Hayes and Wheeler by firing salutes, etc. Let every lover of his country be on hand to do honor to the occasion.

WELCOME!—This week four new families have located in our town. We hope to chronicle the arrival of several more before winter closes in.

MONEY DRAFT.—At the last meeting the Board of Supervisors allowed bills to amount of $1,744 44.

GAINS!

CONNECTICUT AND NEW JERSEY

LEGISLATURES REPUBLICAN.

SECURING TWO U. S. SENATORS!

Last night's stage brought us the cheering news that the Republicans have again achieved a great victory after the most exciting, most important, and closely contested Presidential elections ever held in this country. Hayes and Wheeler have undoubtedly been elected to the Presidency and Vice Presidency by a good majority in the electoral college. The following States have gone for Hayes:

New York	35
Pennsylvania	23
Ohio	21
Illinois	21
Iowa	11
California	5
New Hampshire	3
Maine	3
Vermont	3
Massachusetts	13
South Carolina	7
Rhode Island	4
Colorado	3
Nebraska	3
Oregon	3
Nevada	3
Minnesota	10
Kansas	6
Wisconsin	10
Michigan	11
North Carolina	10
Louisiana	9
Florida	9

The above States give Gov. Hayes a total of 229 votes.

The following States voted for Tilden:

Alabama	10
Arkansas	6
Connecticut	6
Delaware	3
Georgia	11
Indiana	12
Kentucky	12
Maryland	8
Mississippi	8
Missouri	15
New Jersey	12
Tennessee	8
Texas	11
Virginia	11
West Virginia	5

A total of 130 votes. It is true that North Carolina, Florida and Louisiana are claimed for Tilden; and Indiana is said to have gone for Hayes, but as the Empire State gives its 35 votes to Hayes and Wheeler by 3,000 majority, their election is assured.

The Republicans have gained heavily in Congressmen, and the probabilities are the next Congress will be Republican!

The Republicans have secured the Legislatures of New Jersey and Connecticut, thereby insuring the election of a Republican Senator from each of those States—a gain of one, Connecticut now having a Democratic Senator.

Had Tilden been elected he would have no Congress to back him up during two years of his term, so his victory would be a barren one.

QUIT.—On Thursday last, whenever a Republican made his appearance on our streets he was greeted with cheers for Tilden from the little squad of Tildenites in our town, but since last evening they have been very quiet.

SNOW.—A snowstorm set in at noon to-day, and at this writing (2 P. M.) the "beautiful" is coming down quite lively. Get your snowshoes ready for an hour's sport.

ACCIDENT.—Engineer Ward, of the Exchequer Mill, yesterday had the first joint of the middle finger of the right hand cut off by the engine.

STRUCK ORR.—We learn that a body of rich ore has been struck in the I. X. L. mine, but cannot give any particulars in this issue.

EXCURSION.—The ledge in 400-foot level continues to look well.

CALIFORNIA REDEMPTED.

The late exciting election campaign has resulted in the redemption of our noble State by the Republican party, led by a handsome majority, and probably the election of our entire Congressional delegation—Davis from the First District, Page from the Second, McKenna from the Third and ex-Governor Pacheco from the Fourth. Davis, Page and Pacheco are surely elected, but McKenna's election is still doubtful. Below we give the majorities in the several counties:

There was great excitement around Union square, New York, last Wednesday night and crowds besieged the Democratic headquarters. Democratic clubs marched down and cheered before Governor Tilden's house, but the Governor was abed and left word that he was fatigued and proposed to take a few days' rest. From present appearances he can take a good rest so far as presidential labor is concerned.

EDITORIAL SUCCESS.—It is seldom an editor can secure a profitable office by a vote of the people, for he is bound to have more or less enemies ready to give him a back-set whenever one is a candidate for an office, but Brother A. C. Pratt, of the Genes (Nev.) News, is one of the few lucky ones. At the late election he was elected District Attorney of Douglas county, beating Moss Toblin.

Somebody is robbing the mails between San Francisco and Los Angeles. A number of letters containing money are missing.

Sulphur Baths 3 cents. The beneficial results of Sulphur Baths are too well known to require comment. The effects of GLEN'S SULPHUR SOAP in the bath are truly electrical, completely deodorizing offensive accumulations, and thoroughly purifying the entire surface of the body. Sold by Druggists, 25 cents.

AN UNANSWERABLE ARGUMENT.

The strongest argument which can be urged against the feasibility of administering such corrosive and nerve-destrating poisons as arsenic and quinine for intermittent and remittent fevers, is the vastly superior success in the prevention and cure of such diseases of a medicine which is the very antipode of the above named drugs, both in respect of its composition and the results wrought by it. Such a medicine is Hostetter's Stomach Bitter, a purely vegetable preparation, which not only cures with wonderful promptitude every trace of fever and ague, and kindred types of malarious disease, from the system, but is a certain preventive of all malarial diseases of miasmata-tainted air and water. These results mineral anti-fetid remedies do not effect with certainty, and their continued use entails consequences highly pernicious to the system. The Bitters, on the contrary, not only afford speedy relief, but establish health on a permanent basis.
